Do you have a spare couple of hours a week?

VOLUNTEERING

If you took all the volunteers out of the activities that run in and around Sedbergh, it would be devastating: the gaps in our community provision would be vast. Well over half the reports in Lookaround are based on volunteer activities.

For some, volunteering can be a route to employment, or a chance to try something which may lead to a career change. Volunteering can be a way of:

- Gaining new skills, knowledge and experience
- Developing existing skills and knowledge
- Enhancing a CV
- Improving one's employment prospects
- Gaining an accreditation
- Using one's professional skills and knowledge to benefit others (usually described as pro bono)

Below are some of the reasons people choose to volunteer. For some it provides an opportunity to:

- Give something back to an organisation that has impacted on a person's life, directly or indirectly
- Make a difference to the lives of others
- Help the environment
- Help others less fortunate or without a voice
- Feel valued and part of a team
- Spend quality time away from work or a busy lifestyle
- Gain confidence and self-esteem
- Meeting new people and making new friends
- A chance to socialise
- Getting to know the local community better.

How volunteering helps YOU

Volunteering England commissioned a report on the impact volunteering has on people's well-being. Their summary finding is "Volunteering can increase volunteers' longevity, improve their mental health, keep them fitter, and enable them to cope better with illness when it occurs. Volunteering also has a positive impact on a range of factors affecting health service users including their self-esteem, disease management, adoption of healthy behaviours, compliance with medical treatment and relationships with health care professionals." How can you make your volunteer team value what they are doing and encourage new people to volunteer?

1. Thank your volunteers and thank them again (and again....!)

Show appreciation in varied ways and always mention volunteers who make your organizational successful.

2. Reward your volunteers.

Volunteers have many motivations. Really work to get to know your volunteers and what excites them about what they do.

3. Provide an experience connected to your cause. Nurture engagement—not just tasks needed by your organization. The stories of those whose lives are enriched or changed by your non-profit organisation's work will inspire your volunteers.

4. Create a community or team from your volunteers base.

Maintaining open communication channels among your staff and volunteers helps to build community. In person thanks and feedback events are the best ways to fuel connection between volunteer work opportunities. These can be supported by discussion forums and feedback e.g. surveys. But there's nothing like thanking volunteers with a party or just picking up the phone.

5. Showcase your volunteers and how their time and talent contribute to your organization's growth.

6. Honour top volunteers in both big and small ways. Small recognition efforts mean a lot.

Volunteers understand that the constituents receiving your programmes and services are top priorities. But those donating their time and assistance will appreciate being recognized by name in print, online, and in event settings. A token or certificate for volunteer service is always a nice touch. Maybe a "Volunteer of the Month" recognition?

7. Cultivate your volunteers for bigger roles.

Your volunteers may also be leaders — staff advisors, board members, and consultants. Your volunteer pool may yield those who just want to show up and assist with whatever task you provide.

However, care and feeding of all of your volunteers is critical for your organization's reputation and growth.

8. Grow your volunteer pool through recruitment of volunteers by...your volunteers!

Word of mouth is great advertising. Your volunteers are your best recruitment asset. Provide ways for volunteers to invite others to join them.

Think about who volunteers with your organization. Know them well enough to make the best assignments and to provide the perks that will make your volunteers keep coming back—and telling others about your mission and the roles they play in your success.

FRIEND OR FOE? (PART 2)

The official bit:

As the July Garsdale Council Meeting is after the deadline for copy for Lookaround, there will be a report in next month's magazine. However, at this meeting the council is hoping to fill the vacancy left after Neville Woodfine resigned due to a work overload. A B4RN representative will also be bringing council up to date with the rapid progress being made installing ducts for the fibre optic broadband. Representations have also been made to Cumbria County Council regarding repairs to the retaining walls along the A684.

And so:

In last months' article, I was explaining the role of a parish clerk and why I became one to Garsdale Parish Council and then went on to say that it was all down to squirrels, perhaps I should elucidate a little further.

My wife and I moved to Garsdale, where we had previously been 'visitors', to become permanent residents, three and a half years ago. We previously lived in rural Nottinghamshire where the fields were populated by cattle and horses, whereas in Garsdale, it is sheep and red squirrels. Shortly after we moved in, we were aroused from our stupor in front of the TV one evening by a furious knocking on the door. I opened it to find a wild haired, rosy cheeked woman, eyes ablaze with fervour. She said, "I'm in High Paradise". I bet you are, I thought, thinking she'd been sniffing the sheep dip or something. "I live at the top". Noting my puzzled look she then carefully explained that the properties above ours were all called "Paradieses" and she lives in the top one. "You're Phil, aren't you?" she asked, "you've got to help me save the red squirrels, they're in danger from the grey ones, they'll kill them if they meet!"

"OK", I replied, "I'll fetch my coat, I haven't got a gun but maybe I can whack a few with a spade?" It was her turn to look puzzled, I think it was dawning on her that she was dealing with a total numpty. Exasperated, in words of one syllable, she explained that the greys give the reds the 'pox'.

"What, a sexually transmitted disease?" I asked. She started looking around to see how she could make a quick escape. "The 'pox' is a virus that the greys carry but if they pass it onto the reds, it can kill them, so if they share feeders they can get it and it can also be passed on by the drays in the trees" she explained.

Now, to me, coming from a horsing community, a dray is a shire horse that pulls the brewery wagons but I have never seen one up a tree before, I thought I had better not ask as she would more than likely whack me with the spade. "The drays are where the squirrels have their kittens". I looked blankly at her, we were really in Alice in Wonderland territory now, wondering why squirrels wanted pets along with horses up in the trees. From the furious look she gave me, it was me that was starting to have kittens.

"The greys follow the river from Sedbergh so we've got to stop them before they get here". "Oh right" I exclaimed, as the penny dropped, "what you mean is that we've got to build a defence along the river, like sentry posts, and man them with guns and what not?" I had visions of building huts either side of the river, with, perhaps a comfy chair and a radio, and maybe a primus stove to warm some food up, a little 'man cave' in fact. If we spotted anything I could leap out and ask "Friend or Foe?" as apparently it is sometimes difficult to differentiate between greys and reds.

I think she was giving up the will to live by now but courageously carried on to say that we needed to set up a squirrel group so that reports of grey sightings could be coordinated so that the greys could be trapped and dispatched, by Royal Mail or DHL, she didn't say. I said that I should volunteer my services as I had been involved in numerous organisations in the past although she had lost all of her enthusiasm by now. She was about to beat a hasty retreat when she suddenly turned back and said "the parish council needs a clerk, do you fancy it?" My head was full of images of horses with pet cats in trees, man caves and chasing squirrels with a spade and I rather absentmindedly said "OK". It wasn't until much later that it dawned on me that I was now a parish clerk, gulp!

SEDBERGH CYCLING FESTIVAL

Thank you to everyone who supported this year's Sedbergh Cycling Festival, and to those who volunteered their time to help organise it. Visitor numbers were lower than hoped due to the cancellation of the Sportive, but those who came enjoyed cycling themed activities, excellent music and local food and drink. New this year, thanks to sponsorship by the Yorkshire Dales National Park Open Access team, was the 'Wheels for All' initiative from Cycling Projects.

This is a nationally recognised programme bringing an awareness of inclusive cycling activities for all the family, regardless of ability, disabilities or needs and there was an opportunity to try a range of adapted bicycles.

Our main sponsor for the festival was The Yorkshire Dales Millennium Trust, through the Roger Stott Community Grant fund. We would also like to thank our many local sponsors, including Lakes Scaffolding, JMP and local funding bodies - the Sedbergh Community Fund, Sedbergh Parish Council, Sedbergh C.I.C. and Sedbergh & District Chamber of Trade and Business for their generous grants to support this event.

SIGHT ADVICE SEDBERGH

We couldn't have had a lovelier summer's day for our customary lunch at the Fat Lamb, Cautley on Tuesday 20th June.

Fourteen of us enjoyed, as usual, a most delicious lunch. Our good wishes go to those who could not attend and we hope to see them again at our next meeting. Dennis warmly welcomed new members, John and Dorothy Estenson to our gathering.

Once again, thanks to Dennis for providing everyone with interest and amusement in the form of entertaining Place Cards, complete with local scenes and riddles. All in all, a most enjoyable occasion.

We now have a summer break until the 19th September, when Linda Green Smith has very kindly agreed to talk to us. So let's hope the good weather continues in the meantime!

In July, Volunteers met the new Sight Advice Volunteer Support Officer Julia Halford who introduced herself and explained her role in Kendal. Julia comes with a wealth of experience which can only do the Kendal based office a lot of good.

TIM FARRON MP

I had a great time with the Year 6 children from Sedbergh Primary School while they were visiting the Houses of Parliament as part of their London visit last month. We had what I felt was a very interesting chat about the job of being an MP. They had obviously thought about it quite a bit before they came along to see me. I hope that they found it interesting and useful and that it made the connection between what goes on in London and their lives up in the Yorkshire Dales. I know that for a lot of people London seems like a very long way away and what goes on there isn't very relevant to them.

Sadly, we have been seeing recently how wrong that view is and not in a positive way particularly with regard to schools. The Government has announced that teachers, like those who brought the children down to London, will yet again be limited to only 1% over the coming year. This will be the sixth year in a row that teachers have had their pay rise limited to one percent and with our current inflation rates up near 3% I can well believe the National Teachers Union when they say that teachers are earning about 13% less in real terms than they were when the cap was first introduced. It's no wonder that about a quarter of those who qualified between 2011 and 2015 had already left the job by last year.

We really cannot carry on like this. I am seeing class sizes rise across our part of Cumbria and teachers becoming more and more stressed as they are asked to do more and more work for no more money.

On top of this as I have mentioned before in Lookaround we are currently facing the threat of a cut of £28 million in funding for schools in Cumbria under the Government's plans. That could easily result in us having to lose about 700 teachers across the county. I have written to every head in our area to ask them what impact they are anticipating from the plans. I have also been trying to speak to every one of them on the phone just to get as accurate a picture as I can. I will keep the pressure up on the Government until they start to show schools and our children's education the respect that it deserves.

On another issue I have been up to Old Hutton to have a look at the place where a developer is proposing to build a new power station. In case you have not heard about this, it's true there are plans to build a gas fired power station in the village only a few hundred yards from the primary school. Clearly this is inappropriate and I will be working alongside the local campaigners to get the plans changed as soon as possible.

Finally I will be doing my annual Summer Surgery over the coming month. We stop off in Sedbergh and Dent in the morning of the 1st September. Please do look out for the posters and come along if you can. I really look forward to chatting to as many people as possible.

As ever if I can help with anything then please get in touch the email address is tim@timfarron.co.uk and the phone number 01539 723 403.

Thanks for your support

SEDBERGH MEDICAL PRACTICE

Survey Report 2017

The 2017 patient survey was carried out during the week of 27 February 2017.

344 patients completed the survey.

The survey was handed out by the patient group. The members volunteered to spend time during that week asking patients who attended the surgery and also patients in the Dent area to give some feedback on their views of the service they received from this practice regarding their health care needs.

Six members of the group took part handing out surveys from 8:30 am to 5:30 pm in slots of one to 2 hours. This covered clinic appointments for over a period of five days.

The surveys were confidential and on completion were handed back to a member of the patient group or placed in a box on the counter at reception. This time in the survey was able to take the views of quite a large number of young people who came into surgery that week for particular medical checks.

90 of the surveys carried out were from young people under the age of 35. There was slightly more females attending the surgery for appointments during that week. The overall impression from the survey is was that all the staff were helpful, efficient and good at listening and giving advice on matters regarding health. Throughout the practice and no matter which health professional a

NICOLA CHILDCARE

Outstanding Childcare in Sedbergh

Nichola's Childcare has been open for 26 years, offering childcare ALL YEAR ROUND from 7.30am to 6pm.

Places are allocated around parental requirements, from 3 to 45 hours per week.

We are delighted to report that at an OFSTED inspection in June 2017, we were awarded an overall rating of OUTSTANDING in all the four areas - effective leadership, quality of teaching, children's personal development & welfare and the outcomes for children.

Quotes from the OFSTED report -

The inspirational team of staff are creating a culture where children feel loved and secure.

The quality of TEACHING is exemplary.

The whole team has high aspirations for what the children can achieve.

All children make outstanding progress.

The inspector praised the partnership with parents and how the staff value each individual child. That the children "adopt a culture of tolerance and respect for others".

Nichola's has places available and all enquires to 015396 21484 will be welcome. Or ring to come and have a look around to discuss your needs.

We accept the 15 hour and 30 hour funding for free childcare and this can be stretched over 51 weeks per year, enabling you to have free childcare in the school holidays as well as term time.

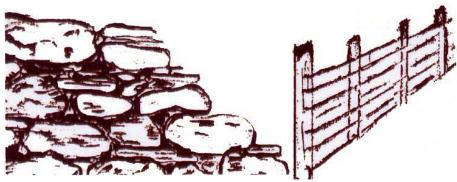

patient saw the response was good according to the patients' needs.

In terms of contact at the surgery over 343 patients surveyed most thought the contact from making an appointment to reception on arrival was very good. Only one person said the response was poor. On a very busy surgery week that is a good outcome.

About half the patients who were offered an alternative GP to that one that they would've liked to have seen were happy. The other group of patients were not so happy at being offered another doctor or health professional to the one that they would really have liked to see. Out of 344 patients only 18 of those were dissatisfied with the alternative health professional.

Patients were asked to think about a consultation at the health centre and most people describe the service as good. Some patients made comments about particular healthcare professionals who they thought were not as thorough as the person they usually saw.

Most patients got their information from either the surgery or word-of-mouth by talking to healthcare professionals during consultation.

280 patients felt that the practice help them understand their health care problems out of the number surveyed. Only 4 patients said they did not.

Most patients said they were very satisfied with the service/care they received and only two patients were dissatisfied.

There was an increased awareness by patients that they could use the online services at the practice and quite a large number of people about two thirds knew that they could order repeat prescription is booked GP appointments and have access to the medical records. This was an increase in online activity from the previous survey which seem to suggest that patients were taking more control of their health care needs.

Overall this survey shows a high level of satisfaction with the service received from Sedbergh Medical Practice and this includes feedback from the younger patients who have their health care needs met here.

SEDBERGH FIRST RESPONDERS NEED YOU!

The Sedbergh and District Community First Responders team have now been active for over two years, and have been called out on over 80 occasions. Thanks to the generosity of local and regional charities, and donations in collection boxes in the town, we have dedicated kit and have installed two public defibrillators, located outside the People's Hall (courtesy of Killington WI) and outside 72 Main Street. We are proud to be able to support Sedbergh folk when an emergency call is made and before an ambulance arrives.

What do we do? We are volunteers working with and trained by the North-West Ambulance Service (NWAS). Our training helps us to deal with, for example, breathing problems, and heart attacks, and to recognise other conditions, such as strokes and sepsis, before the ambulance arrives. Support and reassurance to patients and their families is also an important part of the job. We declare ourselves active by logging on with NWAS using our pagers and the team tries to provide 24/7 coverage, if possible.

So, all is well then with the First Responders? The honest answer is no. While we have a small number of dedicated, skilled and enthusiastic responders in our team, our numbers are declining. To continue in the long-term we urgently require new members.

How can you help? Volunteers should be physically active and be prepared to commit for a few hours each week. You will need to have a car. We will provide the kit, including a fluorescent jacket that fits! Training takes about 20 hours spread out over several sessions. We hold team meetings every month, with training sessions to reinforce our skills. The team will be happy to arrange individual support for new members by responding to emergency calls in pairs.

Interested? Please call Andy Cobb on Sedbergh 22541 for further information.

AUGUST GARDENING

I fell out with my old hedge trimmer a few weeks ago. I retrieved it from the cupboard under the stairs, to trim back a box hedge and a couple of box balls in a friend's garden, but the first attempt left the ornamental ball with the look of a surprised toddler whose Mum has just given him his very first haircut. The hedge, though shorter and narrower was definitely not neater.

The missing teeth from the hedge cutter bar probably do not help, but the main difficulty is that Buxus sempervirens 'Suffruticosa' – the small leaved, slow growing form of Box which is favoured for the best of Box hedges, is so dense and springy, that it bends out of the way of the cutter bar, and then bounces back forming lumps and ripples in the straight edge. The leaves become scuffed and, with the first hot sunshine, bleach white. Not a pretty sight.

Box – and many other small leaved evergreens – are best clipped with a sharp pair of shears, and though slightly more time consuming, this is a very satisfying job if you get up a fair head of steam before you begin

JUNE WEATHER

Hardly "flaming June" but along with some hot spells there were some cooler days. We had a high of 80F (27C) but a low of 38F (3.5C) nearly cool enough for a ground frost. In the past I have actually recorded frosts in June. I remember loosing a litter of baby rabbits once to a frost! It was also a windy month, perhaps more than is usual in June. A maximum wind gust of 22.4mph (36.05kph) blew from our usual North Westerly quarter. On only 2 days did the wind not blow from this direction. Rainfall registered 4.95 inches (125.9mm) for the month with the longest dry spell being 6 days during the 2nd to 3rd week.

It seems that the thrush and blackbirds have been successful in rearing young, in spite of the attentions of the crows, especially the black and white contingent! There have been many others successful including goldfinch, chaffinch, blue tits and even more house sparrows. The 9 blue tit eggs in one of our boxes have been deserted. Another box has been taken over by bumble bees so I've put up 2 new boxes in the hope something else will use them. We had a rare visit to the feeding station from a pair of starlings with 4 youngsters. They used to nest with us years ago but we haven't seen them recently. After last month's disaster the swallows got 4 more chicks off. Unfortunately, as often seems to happen to swallows using the same nest in a season, the nest became infested with mites. On investigation one day I found all was quiet around the nest. I found 2 youngsters, nearly fledged, already dead and 2 others struggling. I brought these into the warmth for a short while and dribble some glucose into their mouths. I tried to de-infest the nest also. Another one died but the last one eventually made it having found it on the floor several times I put it back in an old nest free of mites. It seems a pity they come all this distance and only raise one chick in a season! A neighbour has obviously stopped putting out any food, the house being up for sale, and so our feeders are being emptied pdq! The hedgerows are flourishing this year no doubt due to a fairly wet season. There should be a good crop of blackberries this year judging by the amount of blossom. The foxgloves have had a good year as have the spear thistles. Again I have removed them all. Goodness knows from where they reappear! There are scores of young rabbits about at present giving sport for one of our dogs and dropping to eat for both! Midges are around in droves and I've killed numerous cleggs having a go at getting their supply of blood from me. It is good to see the swifts screaming around New Street again making full use of the boxes put up for them as they lost their original nesting site under the eaves of Main Street after repairs.

swifts may stay longer, often as a result of late breeding. It is sad when the skies are once more empty of their exuberant flying groups and iconic screaming, and it will be a long nine months before we see the return of these wonderful birds..

In July we had some wonderful mornings and evenings of swifts hurtling around, yet many days when hardly any were about. One reason for apparently sometimes seeing fewer around is that the non-breeders, who have only themselves to look after, can travel further afield to find their airborne supply of flying insects.

Typically, chicks fledge towards the end of July. One of our Lowgill pairs laid eggs very early this year and were due to fledge on 17th July. What never ceases to amaze us is that, unlike most other birds, when swift chicks leave the nest on that crucial maiden flight, they do not then return to it, nor are they then fed by their parents. They have to be completely independent. So they sometimes have only a week or so to acclimatise to their new life in the air before undertaking their first long migration to Africa.

We have been delighted to visit three primary schools in the area - Sedbergh, Dent and Kirby Stephen Primary Schools. The staff and pupils welcomed us for sessions to explain why swifts are so special but why they are in trouble. The children were very enthusiastic and asked lots of questions. They all did a quiz and every pupil was given a special booklet about swifts to take home and keep.

Both Sedbergh and Dent primary schools have a TV monitor in reception showing live activity of the webcam swifts. The children enjoy watching their development and it is a great way to introduce an appreciation of wildlife conservation. Before the end of term they would have been able to observe the chick doing press-ups, vigorous exercises that swifts perform to strengthen the wing muscles ready for their departure from the safety of the nest. We are grateful for Danny Smith's IT support in setting the systems up, and for all his help at Settlebeck. There are very few schools with webcams showing swifts and so Sedbergh is really at the forefront.

The chick in the Settlebeck webcam box (1) is thriving, the egg hatched on 19 June which means it is expected to fledge about 29 July. The un-hatched egg has been visible on the floor of the box for most of the time. Eggs do get knocked out of the nest occasionally and even, in some cases, the adults deliberately throw them out. Why this happens we do not know, and in box 2 one of the swifts was seen to do precisely this with one of the eggs. The pair in box 2, even though they have no offspring, has carried on coming back into the box each night, which is a good sign for breeding again next year.

Two pictures of the Settlebeck swifts are shown: one of a pair of adults on the nest, demonstrating their magnificent long wings, and the other of the chick at 3 weeks old.

After chicks leave the nest, one or both of the parents often continue to come back in at night, sometimes for several days. So you may still be able to watch them via the website link <http://www.settlebeck.org/swifts/live.html>. The buffering problem has not yet been fully resolved but if you watch on your phone or tablet (instructions for a free app can be found below the video screen) you won't have any buffering.

SEDBERGH & DISTRICT HISTORY SOCIETY

On a lovely June day a group of SDHS members travelled through the scenic North Yorkshire countryside to reach Rievaulx Abbey. As we approached our destination our first view of the abbey in its idyllic pastoral setting was breathtaking. We were taken aback by the extensive remains of so many monastic buildings and in particular the towering Gothic arches in the abbey church.

As we stood on the grass outside the Visitors' Centre, one of the Guides gave us a concise and interesting introduction to the history and significance of Rievaulx which, when it was established in 1132, was the first Cistercian Abbey in the north of England. He told us that the monks of the Cistercian order which had been established near Dijon in France by St Bernard of Clairvaux were noted for their strict adherence to rules and their spartan lifestyle.

Evidently, the first twelve monks who arrived on the site were expected to be completely self sufficient and archaeology has confirmed that over the years the abbey was involved in rearing sheep, cattle and pigs as well as growing corn and smelting iron. In addition they diverted the course of the nearby river to provide their water supply.

The Rievaulx website provides a comprehensive map of the ground plan of the abbey buildings which is colour coded to show the date of their erection. This was a very useful aid as we explored the development of the terrain. The first structures in the twelfth century were built of wood on the west side of the site. However, before long, the buildings around the nearby cloister were being constructed in stone. Gradually the rest of the monastic building progressed in a westward direction and included: chapter house; refectory; dormitory and an addition to the original church. In accordance with the principles of the order there was little ornamentation in the building style but the remains of a window in the abbot's house indicate a move to more elaborate later Gothic design.

Our Guide had told us about Aelred, the most famous Abbot at Rievaulx. He had a nationwide reputation as a brilliant scholar and by the time he died in 1167, the community had doubled in size to 140 monks and 500 lay brothers. For nearly a hundred years the Abbey flourished but financial problems accounted for the resignation of Abbot Roger in 1239 and in the fourteenth century the loss of most of the lay brothers deprived Rievaulx of its work force. By the time that the Abbey had been shut down by Henry VIII on 3rd December 1538, only 23 monks remained. Henry sold the Abbey to Thomas Manners, 1st Earl of Rutland who dismantled the buildings. Over the following centuries the abbey lands were inherited by different families and in 1917 a programme of renovation to stabilise the buildings commenced.

Those of us who went to Rievaulx felt that it was a very special place and well worth the long journey to get there.

CHURCHES TOGETHER

St Mark's Church, Cautley

Sixteen people enjoyed our Quiet Day, on July 6th. We were blessed by lovely weather, which meant that we were able to spread ourselves around the churchyard and enjoy the beautiful scenery. The Rev. Andy McMullon led the day, which was on the theme of Celtic Christianity, and various prayer stations were in place around the church. These included a finger labyrinth, and also a stone labyrinth which has been constructed behind the church, and will remain there for the foreseeable future. Many thanks to Andy for all his hard work in planning such a special day.

We will be holding a Taizé service on Sunday 26th August at 2.30pm.

These services involve, chants, silence and prayer and can have a very calming effect in a busy world. Everyone is welcome.

News from the Pews

Your Parish Church

Every year the sun has shone for the Summer Fair but this year we got wall-to-wall rain.

With such conditions it was not safe to have a bouncy castle and with various other attractions unable to be with us we did wonder if the day would be written off as a rather damp squib.

Rawthey Rhythm, John Hosker and Roger Bush kept toes tapping with their cheery tunes whilst the smell of bacon frying wafting out through the open doors soon had people coming in to see what was on offer.

The Punch and Judy booth was sited in the centre of church. In between shows Alan the puppeteer wearing his gaily-striped shirt and star spangled waistcoat sent as many children and adults as he could home with specially sculptured balloons. Anytime children appeared a Punch and Judy show went into full swing. Popping in to the church particularly to have lunch a group of seven teenagers straight off the plane from Hong Kong were sat on the front row to watch their very first Punch and Judy show. We did wonder what they all made of it but smiles did emerge and they all waved a happy goodbye.

The stallholders of the coconut shy, tombola, and a few other games gallantly stayed outside under the gazebos. They and their customers deserved medals for venturing out in such wet conditions.

Thank you to everyone who came to support us, the rain may have been persistent but so was the determination to have a good day, and we did.

PRIVATE ORLANDO GARNETT

Orlando Cyril Garnett was the son of William and Ellen Garnett of Burnt Mill, Cautley. He served in the 22nd Battalion, Manchester Regiment in the First World War and fought in the Third Battle of Ypres, being wounded on 3rd October 1917. Orlando was taken to the 2nd Canadian Casualty Clearing Station and died on the 4th

October, aged 19. He is buried at Lijssenthoek Military Cemetery, Poperinge, Belgium.

A brass memorial plaque, commemorating Orlando Garnett, was paid for by his friends and placed in St Mark's Church, Cautley. In recent years the plaque has been showing signs of corrosion, so the churchwardens successfully applied for grants from the War Memorials Trust and Sedbergh Community Trust, to pay for conservation work to be carried out. The plaque is currently at the Scottish Conservation Trust, near Edinburgh, where the renovation work is being done.

St Mark's Church is planning a special service on Sunday 1st October at 2.30pm to remember Orlando and all the other Cautley folk who died in the First World War. We are hoping that relatives of Orlando will be able to attend the service, as well as anyone who is interested. Sedbergh History Society will be providing a display about the Cautley WW1 links, and this will remain in the church for several days.

KILLINGTON WI THE AFTERNOON WI FOR THE ENTIRE DISTRICT

Enthusiasm is everything! Way back when she was a young lass Sally had travelled to Africa and fallen in love with it. Throughout her busy life she had had it in her mind, and when lovely husband had decided to give her a special birthday trip she had no hesitation in selecting the destination. Poor Bernard who had hoped that it would be to somewhere in Italy was rather wary of the wildlife and open spaces of Africa. Nevertheless, Sally's meticulous planning triumphed and the trip of a lifetime was to follow. Uganda was the first objective to see the mountain gorillas in the Bwindi National Park. This was followed by visits to other renowned game parks where they saw and photographed magnificent animal at seemingly very close quarters. A river trip brought them close to wallowing hippos, families of elephants, marauding crocodiles, and herds of wildebeest crossing the river on their annual migration. The countryside varied from verdant green to dry and dusty and the animals differed accordingly. The photographs were outstanding (look out for them at next year's Spring Show!). Their four-week African odyssey ended at Dar Es Salaam on the Indian Ocean. What a spectacular holiday. Thank you for sharing it with us, Sally.

meeting. We were very pleased to welcome Anne Petyt from Sedbergh WI, who had been our representative at the AGM of the National WI held in June at the Echo Arena in Liverpool. It was really good to have a personal report – thank you, Anne. Our Coffee Morning which had been held on a day of absolutely foul weather had nevertheless been a financial (and social) success and refilled our coffers. (but not enough for our treasurer to make a run for it!). Tea was as usual delicious with freshly baked cakes and lovely Drop Scones. Life goes on getting better! Don't forget it will be Digestive Biscuits when it is my turn. Margaret Fearnhead won the raffle- chocolates, (again???? Ed.) and the competition for a picture of wildlife was won jointly by Susan Sharrocks and Lorraine Millington (no- they weren't "Selfies"!)

By the time you read this we shall have enjoyed our annual Garden Party and be looking forward to our outing – a sail on Ullswater and lunch at Pooley Bridge provided by their WI.

Our next meeting at the People's Hall will be at 2-00pm on Tuesday 8th August, when we shall be having a Dementia Awareness Workshop. Do come. It will be very informative.

Pakistan, guided by our speaker, Dr Ernie Hailwood. His presentation was entitled 'From Pole to Pole: A brief glimpse of a geologist's work and adventures'.

We were intrigued to discover that the terms 'continental drift' and 'tectonic plates', now so commonly used, were only invented in the twentieth century. The theory of continental drift was put forward in 1912 by Alfred Wegener and the concept of tectonic plates only came into use in the 1960s. It was an exciting time for a young geologist! Ernie's excellent diagrams showed clearly how the shapes of our current continents could have fitted together in a single huge land mass sometimes named as 'Pangaea', with geographical features such as mountains running continuously from one continent into another. Volcanic activity along fault lines gradually pushed the continents apart, creating mountain ranges and more sea floor between them. I'll say no more for fear of misquoting Ernie, suffice it to say that he introduced us to many fascinating ideas new to us, as well as telling us about his own work collecting sediment samples among the bleak ridged basalt mountains of Greenland, and in Antarctica, and an expedition in conjunction with the Natural History Museum to North Pakistan which discovered a handmade stone tool dated to nearly 2 million years ago, considerably earlier than anything seen there before: he brought along a copy of this stone made from resin which we were able to handle. Many thanks to Ernie for a fascinating and mind-opening evening!

Overnight the book club members were transported from Greenland's icy mountains to England's green and pleasant land, and specifically to Anne Petyl's lovely colourful garden with the beck gurgling below us as we enjoyed the sunshine. The setting of the first part of the book we were discussing was extremely grim, however. 'The Girl I left Behind' by Jojo Moyes begins in a French village under German occupation in 1916-17. The two sisters left to run the village inn after their husbands have left to fight at the front are obliged to cook meals for the local German Kommandant and his men, leaving them in the awkward situation with their fellow French neighbours of appearing to pander to the enemy while trying to keep them at arm's length, and at the same time having to look after their undernourished children as best they can. It's an uncomfortable and dangerous path to tread. The book revolves around a painting whose title is the title of the book, and very precious to Sophie, heroine of part one. In part two, 90 years later, the painting belongs to a young woman in London to whom it is equally precious but who is on the brink of losing it. Tension mounts in both parts with a cast of well-drawn characters. We almost all agreed on a score of 8/10, so we highly recommend it. Some of us would also recommend other books by Jojo Moyes.

The sad part of our WI meeting and the book club was that we had to say goodbye to Gaynor who has made the difficult decision to return to Australia to live close to her children and grandchildren, despite enjoying her life in Sedbergh over the last few years. She has made a valuable contribution to our book club discussions as well as valiantly undertaking the position of treasurer for Sedbergh WI for a couple of years. Thank you for all you have done for our WI, Gaynor. We will miss you but our good wishes for the future go with you and we hope to keep in Both of these worthwhile resolutions were passed and we have received a very full account of the debate from our link delegate Anne Petty.

Last month, Dentdale WI had been on their summer outing by coach driving to Acorn Bank a National Trust property for a coffee stop. The 17th century manor house, which is now being restored and partially open to visitors, has a beautiful walled garden and a medicinal herb garden in a superb tranquil setting. Members would have liked to have stayed

Coming up soon in the programme is the Mini Market, now an annual event. A general request for baking was put out as such is the reputation of the WI cakes etc. they soon disappear from the stall. Our Speaker for the evening was Vivienne Gate talking on Ancestry. She started with a few historical facts telling us that The General Register Office was introduced in 1837. Prior to that, births, marriage and deaths were recorded in Church of England Parish Registers by the officiating clergy. Nowadays there are so many computer sites that have a wealth of information that one can use and Vivienne took us through one of the sites, namely, Ancestry.com showing us how to make that initial search. Finally, Vivienne showed us her own family tree now on a reel of paper about ten feet long! It was an interesting talk and most of us would like to start the quest to look up our ancestry.

Over tea and biscuits there was a chance to talk to Vivienne personally. Jean Haygarth's entry for the competition of a family memento was considered the most interesting, and Thelma went home with the first raffle prize.

Next month's meeting is on August 9th in the Memorial Hall. Visitors always welcome.

Thanks to our delegate Anne Petyt, who attended the AGM in Liverpool, a most interesting report has been received. This is available for all members to read. The two resolutions were passed with majorities. We were pleased to see Lesley Hennedy who dropped in to join us.

Bridget introduced Lynn Marston, our own member, who has gone from horse handler to dog handler. She is the proud owner of Firbank Fell Fergus and Millie, who she brought along to give us an obedience demonstration. Lynn explained her training technique. Four simple commands:- sit. Down. Stay and come, with a happy voice, lots of praise and some rather special treats. The dogs had a job to do which they did well, resulting in happy dogs and happy trainer. Bridget thanked Lynn for giving us a real treat we all enjoyed.

The competition to complete the lyric "There once was a dog handler called Lynn" was won by Tanya Hoare with Vera Hodgson second. Lynn went home with the raffle prize. The evening was brought to a close with our usual Jacobs Join.

On August 3rd our speaker Tom Attwood will be teaching us some Failsafe Gardening. The meeting will be held at Firbank Church Hall.

CUMBRIA WILDLIFE TRUST

Are there weeds in your garden? It is often said that a weed is a plant in a place where it is not wanted- so how did they get there?

Every child knows the daisy parachute of dandelion seed, blown by the wind to a new destination where it may take root. Other plants also rely on wind dispersal. The propeller like seeds of ash and sycamore waft down while the wind drifts them away from the parent tree. Poppy seeds form in a nice container like a censer. Some garden weeds are early opportunists, spreading seed while the soil is still bare.

Plants have many ways to spread themselves. We all enjoy the fruits of plants. Birds, too eat berries. The enclosed seeds are carried far and wide, finally coming to earth in the bird's droppings covered in fertiliser. Tomato seeds remain viable after passing through the human gut, and plants often appear at sewage works. Some plants have hooked seeds (burrs) which attach themselves to animals; others, like brambles, arch to the ground and form new roots when they reach the soil. In some cases the plant does not set seed at all, but forms new miniature plants where seed might be expected. This happens with some grasses.

Some of the most invasive plants spread by overground runners (stolons) or underground rhizomes. The creeping buttercup and strawberry are examples of the former; bindweed and ground elder of the latter. Even a small piece of the underground root will form a new plant.

Aliens can be particularly good at spreading themselves. Himalayan Balsam produces seed pods which explode at the slightest touch. Japanese Knotweed operates more secretly, spreading by penetrating underground roots, making eradication difficult.

You may like to set aside a corner of your garden for wild flowers. It is a little late to collect seed of the early flowers, though there is still some around. Most wild flowers prefer poor soil and don't like too much competition. If you have space it is easy to grow rowan or holly from their fruits. Larger trees like oak ash and beech grow readily; why not plant a few and give the young trees away.

LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE'S FUND

This Fund is provided by the Governors of Sedbergh School for the benefit of all young people (under 25) resident within the parishes of Sedbergh, Dent and Ragsdale, as well as Killington, Dillicar, Firbank, Howgill, Lambrigg and Middleton for educational purposes

The grants are not means tested and applicants are required simply to justify why they be awarded a grant and to give some idea of the cost of the purpose for which the grant is required. It should be borne in mind, however, that only two such grants can be awarded to any one person. It may not be sensible to apply for a comparatively small grant for a primary child, who may need a much more substantial sum later in their educational career. For instance, a talented musician aged 8 might need a violin, but later in his or her career may require a very much more expensive instrument, or even two, over the years. The purpose must, of course, be educational but this covers sports training, music, and travel abroad as well as purely academic purposes.

At a recent meeting of the Trustees it was felt that it might be helpful to those considering whether to apply for a grant to know the types of grant that have been awarded recently, and accordingly the following is a list of the grants awarded on the last occasion

- 1) A grant towards a laptop at

The awarding of a grant and the amount thereof depends very much on the justification put forward in the application. One applicant might want a laptop simply for ordinary use, another may be embarking on an extremely technical electronic university course which requires an very expensive computer. Another may be going on a two week course in Europe, while yet another may be going for six months to work with a charity in a third world country. It is also helpful to know what other steps the young person has taken to raise funds.

The next consideration of applications will be early in November, and the Trustees hope that young people of the district will give early consideration to applying for such grants.

DENMARK EXCURSION

Scandinavia here we come, or Sedbergh girls loose in Denmark

Although most people are still at school, summer is well underway for those who sat their GCSEs in June and are now on study leave. Making the most of the cheaper term-time flights and our extended holidays, a group of girls from the Sedbergh area recently took the initiative to plan a week-long trip to Denmark, catch a two hour flight from Manchester airport and to attempt to survive alone abroad.

After landing in Copenhagen, we faced our first real challenge: the metro. Now, it is important to note that Scandinavian transport, as we would later learn, is very different to English transport. It is undeniably better, and more advanced in its every aspect, with travel cards that work in a similar way to our Oyster cards, and video-game style sound effects that can be heard whenever you check in on a bus or train. However, it is also somewhat more complicated, at least to the uneducated British. But, nonetheless, we made it to the summer house with two metro-changes, two buses and an hour long walk, with complete success.

We spent the majority of our time in Jaegerspris, a small town only one bus journey away from where we were staying. Despite the fact that the town had a rich history and was home to King Frederik VII's second castle, the real reason for this was, of course, the ice cream parlour. Having said that, we did spend many hours exploring the castle grounds and even found a dummy tree. A Danish tradition is for children to hang their dummies on the branches of a dummy tree when they are no longer young enough to use them, creating what can only be deemed an interesting but slightly unnerving thing to come across in the forest.

Of course, we also visited Copenhagen, the highlight of which was definitely the boat tour. We were able to see the Royal Danish Opera House, part of the Tivoli Gardens, the (very) little mermaid and some of the famous canal-boat villages, all from the Nyhavn river. The part of the tour that I personally found most interesting, though, was seeing the Christiania district. Established in 1971, Freetown Christiania occupies abandoned military barracks and functions as a mainly anarchist society. To live there, you must apply for a house and be granted one, rather than buying one, but tourists

At last, though, it was time to return home and face, for the final time, the aforementioned nightmare that was the metro. And, of course, it wouldn't be a satisfactory journey home without some sort of terrifying situation or another! 'Isabel did you check us in?' SEDBERGH & YOUNG PEOPLE

It's a tricky question as to what Sedbergh "needs" for the young people of Sedbergh. I have lived in Sedbergh my entire life and personally I don't think there's anything I would change about it. The rolling fells provide more than enough to keep one entertained for a lifetime.

The scouting association was also thoroughly enjoyable and available to all and several of us also completed Duke of Edinburgh awards through the scouts. BOF of course was also a highlight.

Other than these, there were also lots of sports clubs available at school and I imagine this is still the case. So personally I think Sedbergh provides more than enough if you look for it. I also thoroughly enjoy meeting at one of the many cafés with friends which is yet another option.

I may have a bias viewpoint but Sedbergh provides more entertainment and accessible/free leisure activities than any city could due to the generous community and beautiful location. Of course, there are some things unavailable but that is to be expected in the countryside and I feel lack of a McDonalds and shopping centre is a huge benefit given we have endless freedom in the outdoors in return.

The problem therefore, I feel, lies not with the town as there is plenty to do if you proactively look for things to do. This would lead me to the conclusion that in reality "young people" who the town have sought to entertain with various suggested clubs/facilities simply do not want these activities. The young people are either content as it is or have little motivation to change things or look for things to do. I would argue strongly that there is more than enough if you look for it as I have managed for the last 18 years.

This leads me to try and reassure the community that you certainly are not letting the young people down. Sedbergh has provided a lot for young people and generally this has not been taken up or has been

SEDBERGH CRICKETERS

Cricketers from Settlebeck School recently went to Headingley to receive coaching from Pro Coach Yorkshire at the Yorkshire CCC Cricket Centre.

Like last year, the session was a great success and it is intended that the experience will be repeated once

SEDBERGH PRIMARY SCHOOL

Your local primary school needs you!

Sedbergh Primary School is looking to appoint new Governors.

Why become a Governor?

- To help the pupils gain access to and enjoy the best possible education.
 - To make your own individual and particular contribution to the local community.
 - To use your current skills in what might be a new, yet always challenging, environment.
 - To gain new skills in human resources, finance and management.

What do governors actually do?

A governing body ‘governs’ the school in partnership with the Headteacher.

They work together to ensure that all the children receive an education that helps them reach their full potential.

Governors give strategic direction and focus through agreeing plans and aims, setting budgets, deciding priorities, appointing staff, supporting the work of the school and challenging it to improve.

No special skills are required. The only essential skill is a keen interest and commitment to this school and this community. The most important thing you can bring is that commitment alongside your time and enthusiasm.

The Governors meet once every half term (six meetings a year) for about one and a half hours each time with additional meetings as required for members of sub groups. There are two of these committees – one dealing with finance and premises and the other focusing more on educational and school provision - and you will be required to serve on one of these.

If you are interested or want to know more about the role then please do contact Sedbergh Primary School on 20510 or email Mrs Scarr at admin@sedbergh-pri.cumbria.sch.uk once term starts again in September. Alternatively you could chat to one of the current Governors – the school staff will let you know who they are.

In Yorkshire v Somerset he made 31 in the 1st innings and took 2 wickets. He is to captain the English U19 team against India in the summer. Despite his departure the future looks bright with Thomas Aspinall coming up from the Prep next term having already played for the Senior School 1st Eleven.

The 1st XI won against St Peters York by 97 runs. Their great triumph was the National T20 title against Millfield, and colleagues and pupils lined the road to welcome them back to school. Kyme took three wickets in an over to reach a new School record of 55 wickets in a season. It has been a strong side and did not miss Harry Brook. The games against Canberra and Bromsgrove had to be cancelled due to weather. And the 2nd XI won the North of England Schools T20. At the BOWS tournament the 1st XI were beaten by Wellington and Oakham but in their final game won against Brighton scoring a record 411-7 in 50 overs, and bowling Brighton out for 125.

CITIZENS ADVICE

Have you had problems with on-line parcel delivery?

Citizens Advice research has found that two in three online shoppers have had parcels delivered late, damaged, left in non-secure places like rubbish bins, or 'failed' -where they wait in, only to receive a note saying they were out. Most people don't complain, or find that the sender says it's not their fault.

The retailer is responsible for getting orders delivered to you, not the parcel company. Contact the sender if an item hasn't arrived by the date agreed or within 30 days. You can cancel the order and get a refund for the goods and basic (not premium) delivery costs.

If a parcel is damaged, contact the retailer and they should either offer to send you a new item or refund you.

If someone was waiting at home for the parcel, but a note said it couldn't be delivered, you can cancel the order and get a refund if it's been less than 14 days since you bought it – or just arrange another delivery time. Although legally you're not entitled to compensation, it's worth complaining to the delivery firm and retailer.

If you get a note saying your parcel has been left in a certain location but it isn't there, the retailer should replace it or give you your money back. If you receive the item but aren't happy with where it was left, complain to both the retailer and delivery firm, though there is no legal right to compensation.

AGAMEMNON

The Story Continues.

The Story so far: Agamemnon has returned from the Trojan War only to be murdered by his faithless wife Clytemnestra and her lover, the blonde bombshell Aegisthus. In attempting to justify herself to the Mycenaean masses Clytemnestra falls from the high walls of Mycenae to her death, or does she?

The rosy fingers of dawn climb up the walls of old Mycenae where the people have been kept awake all night by a furious sawing, chiselling and pounding coming from deep within the Temple of the Soar Away Sun God, Phoebus Apollo.

The Agora in front of the Temple begins to fill with the curious and the idle. Then, from the interior, emerges Ambriseis, the High Priestess of the 'Temple that supports our Boys' Sun God.

"Good news!" She cries, raising her hands to the rising sun. "A miracle has occurred. Our beloved leader Clytemnestra has been restored to us."

"Pull the other one!" The ungrateful crowd reply, "We saw her fall. Whee, Splat! No more."

"No, No. Your value for money Sun God whisked her off to Mount Hymettus before she hit the ground and now she is restored to us. Praise the Sun wot done it."

The growing crowd is unconvinced: "Show us then."

Ambriseis disappears back through the Ionic pillars into the still dark interior. Suddenly Aegisthus, blond and bouncy leaps from the depths into the light of day clutching a broomstick wrapped in white linen and topped by a plank of wood bearing a smiley face and a handful of straw for hair.

"Be awed, O Poloi, by the power of your 25pee Sun God. He has restored our beautiful and wise leader to us. Behold Clytemnestra!"

"You've just dressed up a broomstick and stuck a plank of wood on top for a head." A wag observes.

"No, no. What you see is the real Clytemnestra." To prove it Aegisthus begins to shake the broomstick: "There, she moved."

"You shook her."

"No, no I didn't. You just don't understand the ways of the Gods that's all."

"Alright Aegisthus, get her to say something."

"Like what?"

"Bottle of beer."

Aegisthus grits his teeth and gyrates the wooden head. "Gottle of geer. There!"

"Your lips moved."

"No, they didn't."

"Get her to say something else then."

"Like what."

"I want to build a strong, compassionate and inclusive society." Aegisthus is about to reply when the very walls of the city began to shake as a noise like that sound of a deep base drum approaches the city.

"Not only is Clytemnestra alive, but we have support for her too." He says, shaking the wooden figure towards the crowd."

Before he can say any more the city gates crash open and in march thirteen of the hugest one-eyed Cyclopes. "We done a deal 'ere and we want cash up front or we go." Says the leader, Polyphema, threateningly, her single eye shining at the prospect of untold wealth.

Still carrying his wooden doll, Aegisthus descends from the Temple and waves it in front of Polyphema. "Here O Poloi is the support Clytemnestra needs to give you a strong and stable government."

"But they're Cyclopes." The terrified people cry.

"They'll eat us."

"No, no." Aegisthus assures them.

"They ate Odysseus' men."

"My old man was drunk, so he was." Polyphema booms. "And they put out his eye." She picks up one of the crowd and stuffs him into her mouth, chews a bit and burps. "I needed that."

The crowd flees leaving The Cyclopes and Aegisthus alone.

"A million drachmae as we recall it." Aegisthus bumbles.

"Billion. For now, that is."

Polyphema reminds him threateningly.

"Yes yes, silly of us. A billion over five years."

"Two!" Boom the Cyclopes.

"I was never good at figures."

"And all the people we can eat."

"That wasn't in the deal." Aegisthus whines.

"It is now." Polyphema assures him, wickedly.

DENT GALA

From its earliest beginnings as the annual Vicarage Garden party to raise money for the purchase of land on which to build a village hall the Gala is a much loved event which includes Pillow Fights and Coconut Shy, fun sports for all the family, home made WI Teas and much more.

This year we are having all the stalls etc usually on the yard in the field and having a central area for the children's fancy dress and the Dog Show. A live band will entertain us and there will be more activities for little children.

Obviously we hope for a lovely day but will continue whatever the weather.

to sit and be still. It is a haven for wildlife and there is a constant hum of insects. The mature trees provide shade and cover for the many birds that visit and nest in the garden.

In the Spring the Snakeshead Fritillaries discretely grow amongst the gravestones and in Summer Herb Robert and Herb Bennet are as welcome as the Roses and Geraniums. The scent of the Lavenders either side of the main garden doors mingle with the climbing Roses.

In the Autumn and Winter the seed heads and berries provide food and shelter for insects and birds as well as adding natural sculptures to the area. The wind and rain sweep through the trees adding a soundscape along with the sound of Flintergill which rushes down through the trees. Over time it has worn a waterfall & deep bed in the limestone, in a dry spell it is silent beneath the ground, but after rain it surfaces adding energy to the garden.

Walking meditation is often part of the teaching at The Centre and the mossy carpet of grass provides a wonderful sensory experience for those who choose to walk barefoot. The small graveyard full of soft grasses is a reminder of the history of this sacred space and a connection to the community in the dale who worshipped here over the years.

If you are passing you are welcome to visit and enjoy this peaceful place.

DENT DALE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

In June our speaker was a Dent lad born and bred who shared snippets of his early life and coming to the place of personal realisation of God.

Andrew Woof who grew up in the dale and attended the primary school came from Carnforth where he was one of the Pastors of the Free Methodist Church. With humour and sensitivity he shared his testimony and of the big decision he and Tina have taken recently to move to ministry in Garstang knowing God is leading them.

Over supper everyone had the opportunity to chat and the singing part of the evening was as ever much helped by Brian playing his piano accordion. Brian comes to join us from his home in Blackpool and we are blessed to share fellowship with him. As ever, all are welcome. 4th Sunday monthly (not Dec!)

Me mum and dad used to get up at three or four in the morning to start mowing before the heat of the day. "My grandfather went to the Great Exhibition of 1851 and brought back with him the first mowing machine which was known in Westmorland, or so I'm told. That must have made a great difference. They're horse drawn, usually with two horses, though on the small farms they were often just a single horse. And they had a reciprocating cutting bar, which was very efficient but of course it was liable to be damaged by the stones, much more so than the present rotary mowers." Ingram Cleasy born 1920

DENTDALE CHOIR

The Dentdale Choir is delighted to be planning ahead for its 2017/18 season. Fresh from the success of our spring concert, which featured a programme of works by, among others, Elgar, Lauridsen and Todd, and a performance of the Duruflé Requiem, we are looking forward to tackling new repertoire and, importantly, welcoming new members. This will be the second season under OUR new Musical Director Richard Bruce.

As a community choir, The Dentdale choir prides itself both on introducing new music to its members and its audiences but also on welcoming all who want to sing. An ability to read music and experience of singing is an advantage but not required. Where possible we make resources available online for singers to learn in their own time. This year we will be learning new pieces by composers including John Tavener, Jonathan Dove and Eriks Esenvalds, practising for December carol services and working on a major work for our spring concert.

Our first rehearsal of the year will take place in the Memorial Hall, Dent on 12th September at 7.15. As well as introducing some of our new music, new and returning members will be meeting for wine and nibbles. If you are an experienced singer or musician we promise new music to learn and work through. If you are relatively new to singing, you will find that we are a group that will allow you to learn and join in at your own pace.

Either way we would love to see you there!!!

Please contact our secretary John Feltham in advance to allow us to plan for numbers of copies of the music we'll sing:

Over 18 years accountancy experience,

It wasn't just that all the 26 Lakeland Voice singers who joined us spent time learning over a dozen songs in Slovenian (and a few dances too,) they also learnt the rudiments of the language so that when we stayed with Slovenian singers in their homes, or shared meals and drinks in our twin town, we were able to have conversations and a real sharing of our two cultures.

As well as learning our choir songs in 3 and 4 part harmony, I prepared a book of over 50 songs in both languages so that we could join singalongs - the Slovenian song Siva Pot was especially popular having been a hit in Slovenia when Alexander Mezak recorded it, and easy for our English singers because the tune is the same as John Denver's Country Roads. The Wild Rover and Rolling Home have been sung to extinction in the UK, but in Slovenia they are still popular with choruses which are easy enough for everyone to join in with.

Despite the common refrain that "everyone speaks English in Slovenia," this is not true - and many of the older people, for whom German is their second language, were very appreciative of our efforts to include them in our cultural exchange.

Kaplic Tol'kor let ("May you have as many years as there are drops of wine in the glass") were especially useful as on several occasions we would be walking past a farm up in the hills near Zrece and after singing the farmers a few songs were invited in to their wine cellars. We also enjoyed a wine tasting afternoon at the vineyard of Vojko, who many of you will remember from when he visited Sedbergh for the filming of the Town That Wants a Twin and worked at the Bull Hotel. Our church songs like the evening hymn Vecernica, and songs in praise of the Virgin Mary, were also useful when we visited many of the beautiful mountain churches - and well known enough for us to invite the villagers to join in with us singing the tune.

We stayed in the fabulous Pod Rogla hotel, tucked into the forest with a river flowing past our windows, and had the best party I can remember in Slovenia, singing alongside the Zrece Firemen's Choir and Marjan Hren's group Vinski Brat (the brothers of wine) and others from the town - accompanied by a barrel of the hotel's best home made beer. Our concert at the biggest hotel in Zrece alongside the Zrece Town Choir Zbor Jurij Vodovnik was also a great success - appreciated as much by the local people who came to enjoy it as a visiting tourist group from Nottingham. After the concert we split up into smaller groups with our singers sitting alongside the Zrece we were quite understandably stopped from visiting the island's church in our swimming costumes having walked up the steps from the lake. For our concert in that iconic church we rowed out in several boats - having sung the well known Jugoslavian folk song Plovi Barko to a young couple setting off in a boat (Sail o boat, in the boat is Anka, my heart and soul) which encouraged the boatman to produce both floods of tears and a bottle of Slivovic to thank us.

We sang on the electric launch as it sailed up the lake, and then on a walk back along the northern shore to our minibuses, with some fascinating descriptions of the wild flowers given by one of our singers, a botanist from Oxford University. And alongside the Franc Urbanc male voice choir in the mountain village Stara Fuzina tucked into a dale beneath Slovenia's highest mountain Triglav, and in the farmhouse micro brewery where Monika produced her home made beer and liquers with such a wealth of warmth, good humour and stories about life in old Slovenia.

For all its beauty, and for all the abundance of nature, for our singers and me, what remains the most attractive feature of Slovenia is the hospitality - an experience which never fails to renew my faith in humanity - which we brought back with us, and passed on to over 40 choirs visiting Kendal for the June Street Choir Festival which we arranged. Many of the visiting singers said that ours was the most hospitable of all the festivals which visit a different town each year - an experience which hopefully they will pass on in their own towns.

Our choir starts again in the second week of September every Tuesday evening. As more of the singers come from Kendal than from Sedbergh, we practice in the Castle Street Centre in

ORGAN RECITAL

Organ enthusiasts should be on red alert for the occasion of a recital by well-known organist, Alexander Finch.

Alexander who gives concerts on quality organs at high profile venues worldwide, including Europe, the USA and the Far East has booked himself in to play on Friday, August 4th at the rather less prestigious venue of St Oswald's Church, Ravenstonedale on a more modest and elderly but nonetheless good quality Harrison & Harrison organ. Why? Because he was brought up in Newbiggin-on-Lune, went to Ravenstonedale primary school and later, Sedbergh School. Attending a service at St Oswald's church last year, when told that our steadfast regular organists found the organ a struggle to play he offered to have a go. What followed was an impromptu rendering of part of Widor's Toccata from Symphony No 5 much to everyone's amazement and delight. As one parishioner put it 'he made our organ sing'.

Alexander is a professional organist used to playing on all sorts of organs but he agreed that it was difficult to play and was in need of regular care and attention and he promptly offered to put on a recital to help with its upkeep. We are in for a treat ... don't miss it!

Entry to the Recital is free but donations towards the upkeep of the organ will be gratefully received. Light refreshments will also be available.

The Museum planned to have the film shown, and the music performed nationwide by 100 groups of musicians, of which Sedbergh Orchestra is one, as part of the World War 1 commemorations.

On Saturday 8th July St. Andrews Church was filled to capacity for this ambitious undertaking. The Orchestra gathered 50 players, and added contra bassoon, xylophone, kettle drums and wind machine to the usual instruments enhancing the sound and experience for the large audience of local people and from further afield.

Insight into the work of the production of the film was provided by Alistair Fraser, a Durham academic who has made a special study of the battle. Numerous soldiers on the celluloid have been identified and conversations transcribed from lip movement. The film was shot over 9 days and a steady hand was needed to wind the film as the fighting continued around. The morality of faking elements arose, as it does today, amongst documentary makers and news providers.

maintain a tight rhythm and contact between pictures on the screen and the musicians who could not see any, intently following scores.

The composer had been careful the work should not dominate the visual impact, the music quietly reflecting the events occasionally increasing with tempo as success on the battlefield emerged, and volume as field guns sent off shells.

The film had been shown recently in the silent version in Sedbergh with captions to explain who and what was watched. They were used at this performance, but the music added a further element and the viewer was left with a stronger recollection of what had been seen on the screen.

The evening ended with tributes to the fallen and as is customary at solemn performances applause was discouraged, but one was left with a feeling of wanting to do so, to salute the achievement of the town orchestra in staging this work, which they undertook again the following day at Skipton.

SEDBERGH BOOKTOWN

Is Sedbergh Really a Book Town?

Occasionally I meet people who suggest that the book town image of Sedbergh is really not worth retaining. Be assured it is very important to retain and develop it for a number of reasons.

It is true that currently we now have fewer shops selling quality second hand books than when the Book Town was first launched. This mirrors the rest of the country where such shops are closing at an alarming rate. Hay-on-Wye has seen their numbers halve in the last few years. Not surprisingly Sedbergh is affected by this trend.

Actually the closure of so many second hand book shops makes centres like ours even more valuable and important and this is becoming very evident when asking buyers why they come to Sedbergh to purchase books.

Second hand book sales at the Information and Book Centre (I&BC) are increasing every year. Other book shops in the town report a similar trend. Such sales increase the economic viability of Sedbergh and particularly for us at the I&BC where they provide the funds to keep the Tourist Information Centre financially solvent. Without these sales the Centre might have to close.

People coming to buy books are often surprised by what else Sedbergh has to offer. Unsurprisingly they often use the cafes but occasionally indicate that they could return to holiday in the area at some time in the future. Certainly most buyers return for further book purchases.

Plans are now afoot to involve more shops in the town in the Book Town. This is proceeding but only slowly due to the number of shop changes at present. More on this later but when done we will be able to attract even more visitors to our town which is good for us all. Douglas Thomson

YORKSHIRE DALES NATIONAL PARK

Comprehensive rights of way survey carried out in National Park

Volunteers have begun the mammoth task of surveying the condition of every public path, stile, signpost, gate and bridge in the Yorkshire Dales National Park.

A total of 93 volunteers will between them walk all 1,628 miles of public rights of way in the National Park by the end of the summer.

Armed with clipboards and detailed survey sheets, they will assess 18,419 pieces of infrastructure and 1,047 bridges.

A further 23 volunteers will input the information onto the Yorkshire Dales National Park Authority's (YDNPA) computer system, used by the ranger service to plan and record rights of way work.

The chairman of the YDNPA, Carl Lis, said: "I'd like to sincerely thank all the volunteers. They are carrying out a huge and essential piece of work. What many people will find extraordinary is that this survey takes place every year."

"The information our volunteers will gather will give us a full picture of the state of the rights of way network, which we shouldn't forget is an asset of crucial value to both residents and visitors. A lot can change in a year. The volunteers have already found fallen down trees across stiles, rotten signposts, an occasional locked gate and all manner of other issues, all of which will be resolved by the ranger service throughout the year."

One of the volunteers is Bob Emmerson, from Richmond. He said: "Doing the Parish Paths Survey ultimately enhances the enjoyment for visitors. It's vital to ensure that the public rights of way network is kept up to a very high standard of repair. Being involved also means that I get to walk paths that I probably would not normally walk.

"I am very proud of being a Dales Volunteer and being part of such a dedicated group of people who give their time and expertise to the special place that is the Yorkshire Dales National Park."

The YDNPA keeps a record of volunteers' contribution to the public rights of way network, in terms of both the annual survey and maintenance work. In 2016/17, 2,272 working days were completed by

YORKSHIRE DALES NATIONAL PARK

National Park seeks to shape post-Brexit farming policy

The Yorkshire Dales National Park Authority has today committed itself to bringing forward detailed policy proposals for upland farming in the Yorkshire Dales by the end of this year.

The chief executive, David Butterworth, told the authority's annual meeting that now was the time to seek to influence the government's policy on agriculture post-Brexit.

He described farming as a "critical industry" to the Dales and said the starting point should be to set an "extremely ambitious" target of retaining the present number of farm holdings in the National Park.

Members agreed to set up a formal working group, made up largely of Dales farmers, to develop proposals for new farm payment and agri-environment schemes.

Mr Butterworth said: "The Brexit negotiations have begun. The day when the government puts in place a new agricultural policy for England is getting nearer. We need to make sure that the voice of Dales farmers is heard. One thing is for sure: a one-sized-fits-all policy will not work for us.

"This is a time of great uncertainty for many farmers. As they do more than anyone to conserve and enhance the natural beauty of the National Park, it is an uncertain time for the Authority, too. However, Brexit does represent a significant opportunity to improve the profitability of farming and the environmental outputs that are so critical to achieving our statutory purposes."

The working group will be made up of six people:

- ◊ Chair and Member Champion for the Natural Environment, Ian McPherson
- ◊ Chairman of the Authority, Carl Lis
- ◊ Member Champion for Cultural Heritage, Julie Martin
- ◊ Dales farmer, Allen Kirkbride
- ◊ Dales farmer and Member Champion for Sustainable Development, Chris Clark
- ◊ Dales farmer, Neil Heseltine

The group will draw inspiration from a 'policy discussion paper' put together by National Parks England earlier this year, and submitted to the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs. The paper said it was vital that new English farming policy should include "locally-led agri-environment schemes".

The working group chair, Ian McPherson, said: "The future of existing agri-environmental schemes is extremely uncertain. Many solutions are being considered both at a national and local level.

"This is a critical time for the future of uplands farming and it is hoped that the Authority, working with partners, can play a leading role in helping to shape the future of a balanced agricultural and environmental policy for our area."

B4RN DEVELOPMENT

Sedbergh and surrounding area

What development you may well ask as you will have not seen any field activity in and around Sedbergh.

However, be assured there is a huge amount of activity being put into the planning of fibre routes. The main ducting routes to and from the two cabinets are being planned at the same time as the main routes around Sedbergh Town and through the surrounding area. For Sedbergh Town it is particularly difficult as the planning involves some 15 farmers/landowners and around 30 residents with gardens.

We do now have permission to use Plank Bridge to cross the Rawthey. A major effort is being put into installing the cabinets at Sedbergh School and Waterside Caravan Park and on the planning of the major routes to them.

Whilst as yet we are not ready to carry out field work we would like to hear from people who feel they will be able to help with the installation of the ducting and chambers. It is field work but not particularly arduous. I am pleased to be contacted with offers Vehicles have been seen travelling at speed in the area, this is being monitored and we will fine those committing this offence.

Crime prevention advice for this time of year is make sure your sheds/outbuildings are locked and secured. When working in the back garden make sure your front door is locked, especially in hot weather when your windows are open, make sure keys and valuable items are not within easy reach. CSO 5244 M Coleman

DIANA DICKINSON

I realise I didn't say enough "good-byes" before leaving Stone Close Tea room for Herefordshire but I am not very good at it. The last couple of years have been pretty tough for me but I do want to say a huge thank-you to all who knew us, for your kindness and support. It truly has been appreciated. Now, once more, new people, Andrew & Alison, are coming to run Stone Close Tea Room and Guest house and I am sure they will give their 100% to it and the village. As for myself I will look to visit again as part of me will always hold a special place in my heart for Dentdale. Thank-you again, Diana

EDITORS COMMENTS

NEW ADVERTISERS

Yet again, we have another new Advertiser this month with Cherry Stainton and his JCB Hire.

If you make any enquiries, please mention that you have seen the Advert in Lookaround.

FUTURE OF LOOKAROUND

There is nothing to report this month.

We are still looking at our last issue being December 2018. To date (July 2017), we have had two enquiries but time is running out.

BACK COPIES

There is a complete set of all the previous Lookaround's in the History Society Room at 72 Main Street.

LOOKAROUND INFORMATION

The Sedbergh & District Lookaround is edited, published & distributed monthly by Dennis & Jacky Whicker & is printed by Stramongate Press. The content of The Lookaround does not reflect the views of the Editors.

Whilst every effort is made to ensure that information is correct, the Editors cannot accept any responsibility for any inconvenience caused through errors or omissions. If there is an error with your article or advert, it is your turn this month in amongst hundreds of entries each month.

Current Copies are available from Sedbergh Information Centre, Sedbergh Mini Market, Post Office, Spar, Dent Stores & Barbon & by Post (please enquire). Back Copies are available at the History Society at 72 Main Street.

All items for Lookaround must be sent to 72 Main Street, Sedbergh or deposited in the Lookaround Post

Box there or sent to editor@sedberghlookaround.org.uk

ADVERTISING

For the benefit of advertisers, the following information will assist you.

If you wish to place an Advert in Lookaround, please include the correct money or cheque with the details & place it in the Post Box. A receipt will be issued & left in the Lookaround Tray in the Office for collection or include a SAE.

Our distribution area is the LA10 Postal District which is Sedbergh & the surrounding villages, but it is sent all round the country & the world.

We are published on the 1st of every month (except January).

February to November is printed black ink on white. The December/January issue is in full colour. All copies have a full colour cover to indicate a new issue & photographs are requested from our readers who will be credited.

We do not have whole page adverts but will allow two half page adverts opposite each other.

The Front Page is given priority to Event Adverts relevant for the appropriate month.

You can supply the information & we can create an advert for you. You can supply an example in hard copy & we will reproduce it (please mention if a particular Font is required). You can supply an original using Microsoft Publisher, a Word, a jpg or as a PDF (although the quality is reduced when importing it).

If you order numerous adverts, the content can be the same every month or it can change if you are seasonal.

The closing date for new Adverts is 15th of every month. Renewed adverts & articles are 19th of every month.

Advertising rates have been updated: December 1991, December 1995, March 1997 & August 1999 (over 17 years ago.)

PERSONAL MESSAGES

These are £1 each & are for sending Good Wishes, Thank You's, Birthday Greetings, Anniversaries & any other celebration or congratulation. You may also sell personal items - not on a business basis, & also make an appeal for wanted items.

Details with respect to people Passing Away are inserted for free.

Please submit legible writing as many mistakes have been made in the past due to not being able to read properly.

GROUPS AND ORGANISATIONS

Any organisation that charges an admission, sells items or requires a donation from the public for anything at their event & wishes to include details in The Lookaround, are requested to place an Advert with us. This can be supported by text which cannot all be included in the advert. Any report after the Event is free. The request for payment for an Advert is to assist with financing The Lookaround which has a large printing expense every month. We feel that the Advertising Rates are very reasonable. All Adverts for Events automatically have the details entered into the Diary Page at the rear of The Lookaround. If organisations do not wish to Advertise with us, details of the Event will still appear on the Diary Page, but no text will be inserted.

BUSINESSES

Adverts for the Rent or Sale of property are not Personals & can only be included as a boxed Advert.

If you are a new advertiser in Lookaround & you order 3 or more adverts, you will receive one free advert & can also include some text explaining who you are, what you are, where you are, etc (which can not all go into an advert) up to about 550 words for free.

If you have more than 3 months of advertising, we will automatically send a renewal reminder should you wish to continue. If you order 10 months, we give you one free (making one whole year).

We respectfully request payment with ordering. Please make cheques payable to "Sedbergh & District Lookaround".

Payments by BACS can also be made. This account is valid from June 2017.

Account: Lookaround
Account Number: 90931551
Code: 20-45-45
Reference: Invoice Number,
your name or reference.

CAN YOU PLEASE INCLUDE THE INVOICE NUMBER WHEN PAYING BY BACS?

Any receipts issued for Adverts will be left in the Lookaround Tray in the Information Centre for collection.

CHILDREN'S BIRTHDAYS

Children's Birthdays are included free on the Birthday page until their 11th Birthday.

Every month, a randomly selected child will receive a £10 Gift Voucher
